"The Advocate"

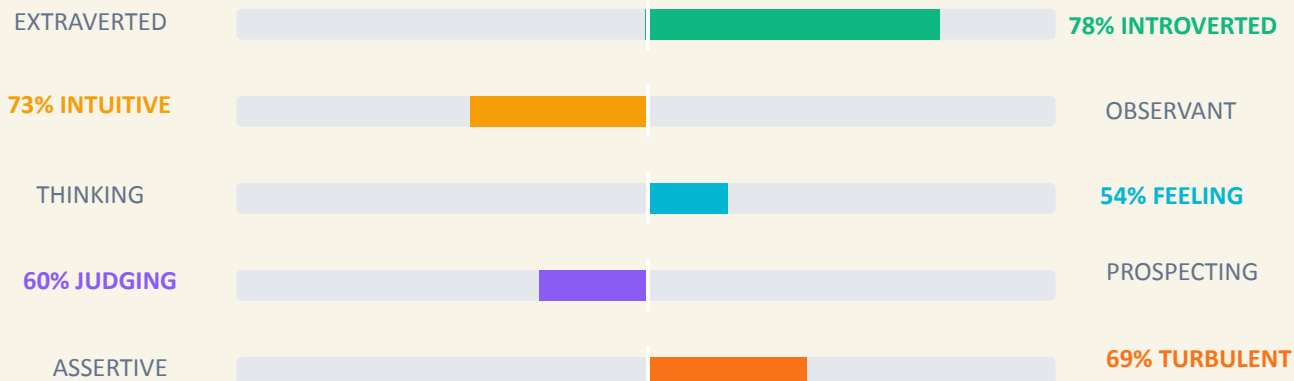

I'm someone who genuinely cares about the people I work with, not just the work itself. I also balance logical thinking as well as empathy over the decisions I make. I love to feel the warmth of accomplishment after a serious hard work with peers.

MY PERSONALITY TRAITS

STRENGTHS & WEAKNESSES

▲ STRENGTHS

- Emotional Attunement : I help teammates feel heard and pick up on when someone's struggling before it becomes a bigger issue.
- Conflict Mediation : I see both sides of a conflict and step in to defuse tension rather than let it escalate.
- Big-Picture Thinking : I think ahead about where a project is headed, not just the task in front of me.
- Reliability : Once I commit to something, I follow through reliably, even when it's inconvenient.
- Integrity-Driven Work : I care about doing things the right way, not just getting them done fast.

▼ WEAKNESSES

- Emotional Overload : I take on other people's stress and emotions, which can leave me drained.
- Sensitivity to Criticism : I take feedback or criticism more personally than I probably should.
- Self-Doubt : I sometimes hold back my own ideas out of fear they won't be good enough.
- Difficulty Delegating : I can be slow to delegate because I want things done a certain way.
- Need for Solitude : I need a lot of quiet time to recharge, which can come across as distant in a fast-paced team.

Professional Challenges:

Effective Communication

I find myself struggling to communicate my thoughts effectively in most of the group discussions with peers

→ I'm working to improve my communication by intrapersonal communication and rehearsal speeches.

Sensitivity to Criticism

Feedback in group settings can feel more personal to me than it's meant to be.

→ I'm learning to accept my weakness & actively work on it to improve myself

Avoiding Confrontation

I can shy away from direct disagreement, even when it's needed, to keep the peace.

→ I'm convincing myself that my voice matters in every group discussions.

My Reflection

This self-assessment report (INFJ-T) has helped me understand my strengths and weaknesses much more clearly. It's also pushed me to actually think about the areas I need to work on, instead of just acknowledging them in passing. More than anything, this exercise gave me a clearer picture of who I really am.
